PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

GENERAL SESSIONS

TUESDAY

■ What the Dialysis Machine Doesn't Tell You John Sweeny, BS Physics, CHT

As you might imagine, the machine is not as good at telling the caregiver what is actually going on as he/she may believe. This presentation covers the accuracy of machine parameters as they relate to patient treatment including TMP, pressure monitoring, needle displacement and temperature. A caregiver with good patient assessment tools is a real asset even if the machine is working fine.

■ Future of Dialysis Larry Jones, CEO, Innovative Dialysis Services and Brooks Rogers, VP Technical Services, Fresenius Medical Care, NA

Leaders from key dialysis providers will discuss where they see dialysis going in the face of technological advancements, government regulations and the aging population.

■ Benefits of Home Treatment for Patients and Centers Dori Schatell, MS, Executive Director, Medical Education Institute

What's in it for patients to do dialysis at home – and, how can your clinic benefit from having patients dialyze at home? Learn both in this informative session.

■ Improving the Health Care Team Michael Morales BS, CHT, CCHT, CCNT, CBNT, Dialysis Education Services; Cindy Miller RN, CPHQ, QI Coordinator, The Renal Network; Connie Schroeder MAOM, BSN, RN, IDS Education Administrator

The education of the dialysis technician, from the initial training, achieving certification and continuing education for recertification and the improved quality of care for the Chronic Kidney Disease patient will be discussed by educators from a dialysis training program, dialysis provider and ESRD Network.

■ Technician Empowerment: Getting Through Your Midlife Crisis Nicole Martinez CHT, PCT/Home Program, Wade Miller CCHT, DaVita

There comes a time in every dialysis technicians career when you think, "Do I want to do this forever?!" Our session is meant to help technicians re-assess, re-evaluate, and re-energize their career path! Our hope is to start with the excitement of those new to the nephrology community, help those with their mid-life dialysis crisis, and pose some self-reflecting questions to help all technicians determine where they are at and how they want to move forward! As always too, laughter is the best medicine and there will be plenty of humor throughout the presentation to keep it fun as well as educational! Don't be late, and bring your sense of humor and a camera!

THURSDAY

■ Time to NOTICE Infection Control

Teri Spencer RN, TB Spencer Consulting LLC

The NOTICE Initiative – National Opportunity to Improve Infection Control in ESRD – was formed to develop and use resources that will reduce infections in dialysis facilities. The goal is to have direct care staff and auditors (facility administrative AND surveyors) all using the same "checklists" for direct care. This session will focus on what is expected of direct care staff in particular.

■ Green Tech Room Rejean Quesnelle A.Sc.T., Renal Technologist, Halton Healthcare Services

In our continuing series of "Green Dialysis" technicians will learn how to make their tech room and patient care areas more eco-friendly and save money while doing so.

"The leadership skills I developed from my NANT officer positions has helped me get new positions with more responsibility and high salary." – Tim Dillon, CHT

■ Your Role in Keeping Patients Safe Glenda Payne, MS, RN, CNN, Director of Clinical Services, Nephrology Clinical Solutions

Observations and skill of both the clinical and technical staff are critical in keeping dialysis patients safe. Learn basic and advanced methods to ensure no patient is injured on your watch. You'll be able to create a plan to implement or improve a patient safety program in your facility.

"John Sweeny is an excellent speaker – he really summarized past data and projections for the future"

■ Dealing with Difficult Patients

Diana Shelkov CHT, Englewood Hospital/FMC

Difficult patients can be a challenge. This session will help you properly assess and respond to various difficult situations that technicians encounter, how to plan and prepare an appropriate response and how to defuse a situation for better communication with the patient.

■ Common Survey Mistakes you DON'T Have to Make

Teri Spencer, RN, TB Spencer Consulting LLC

Preparing for a survey is hard work! But, there are mistakes that a lot of dialysis centers make that can easily be avoided. This is a must presentation for any technician whose center will be surveyed in the next three years.

■ Clinical Case Studies Wade Miller, CCHT; Teri Spencer, RN; Diana Shelkov, CHT; John Sweeny, BS
